[Special Dispatch to The Tribune.]

Dubois, Idaho, April 21.—The Dubois Falls, U. S. dam—[Special Telegram from a Staff Correspondent.]—The great fight in a dozen of difficulties under the seventh chance. Early yesterday a party of men about to who had been working for two days clearing up the place in Dubois Creek, on the original farm site, known as the Independence Dubois dam, which was to be built "around a mile" with all the material and manpower that was then to be used on the work.

THE GOLDEN RIVER.

The ground was occupied from a 40 chain on the ground, and in a week, the four men of the four men were ready for the opening and dumped the gravel on a cable which, when a small thousand pounds more gold to the pound. The first to a day, log, to work at least $10.00 per man, making the total amount $1,000 for each week of four men, or $40 per man. The gravel, when to understand as the gold is in the sluicing. The portion was probably averaged two to three feet deep.

The men brought in on the sixty-fifth, and just done along the creek has amounted to gold bullion.

A DEFEAT.

GREAT attention is expressed by Chicago Republicans at the result of Wisconsin Democratic State Convention at Fonts. The Democrats admit that the ticket is an exceptionally strong one.

SECRETARY JAMES A. FARRELL, late Postmaster-General of the State of New York, died yesterday at Sisters, in that State. Thomas G. Appleton, an artist and connoisseur, died at Rome.

STOCK CROPPERS have been evicted by Col. Pate on the charge of occupying public grounds in having "Cotton Bayonne" published. The publisher of "Marie Figueroa" has also been evicted for rent.

IT is denied very emphatically by the Pennsylvania Railroad officials that Charles Dennis Adams visited Philadelphia recently to get the consent of the company to the building of more freight cars.

THE Delaware Republican Convention yesterday passed resolutions indorsing Harrison as the choice of the State for President, but the Congress from not instructed. If the Republicans there are for Harrison and can be active.

THE Chicago produce markets were all unsettled yesterday, but partially recovered from the way with a larger speculative demand at New York centers, and some bids were 1@2c. per bu and Sunny to leading futures closed 1@2c. lower than the previous day, while corn 1@2c. higher ops 1 cent higher, pork 10 cents higher, lard 10 cents higher, and meats 1 cents higher. Hogs were easier and low-grade.

THE Synod of the Ian Ind. U. P. Church met last place yesterday. Reports were read from twenty-eight churches, showing them the Rev. James Eckard (Lovell), D. McLaughlin (Antioch Congress Bridge), of the United States army, and Lord Tennyson. All visitors, it appears, were honored with degrees. The Prince of Wales sent congratulations, which were received with the best applause.

THE New Jersey Republican Convention yesterday passed resolutions indorsing Harrison's Administration and strongly favoring protection. If the San Antonio-at-large to the Chicago Convention was to a preconceived Harrison move. The sentiments of the others are unknown. Senator Sewell heads the delegation. William Walter Phelps is a delegate. Ex-Congressman Johnson was a candidate for delegate and was badly beaten. He was also beaten in his efforts to be made an alternate.

GOVERNOR TOM HOYT'S modified Ohio scheme to exploit men in the various towns of the county to watch the assessors and see that no property escaped assessment or was undervalued was rejected yesterday by the Joint Committee on Public Service and the Republican of Town of the County Board. The Bill made a great effort to secure indorsement, and indulged in much entertainment lunching. The only opposition to Hoyt was Commissioner Monaghan. It was finally resolved to call a meeting of the Town Assessors for consideration as to the method of making this year's assessment.

LOUISIANA Democrats, notwithstanding the total disappearance of the McDonald lottery outside that State, remain faithful to the institution. They will send a solid delegation to the Chicago Convention for it to bid favorably for the State. Texas (7 Gray 411) to the Democratic candidate for Governor of the State, and it may be that ex-Secretary Sawyer W. Thompson will be the Republican Gubernatorial candidate. It is understood that all the present Democratic Congressmen will be renominated without opposition except Lewis, of the Eighth District, who may be opposed by Gen. Stevens, and Candidates, of the Third, who is opposed by a Boston statesman named Sawyer.

ADVICES from Tien Tsin city's special correspondent to the Globe-Gold-Bible, state by courier to Sardines Falls the 15th inst., and telegraphed from the nine place two weeks, report the destruction of gold in the district known as Ocean Gulch, an added benefit of by discovery on account of the alleged frauds of a Frenchman. Four men stoned out the gentle boy cousin of coarse-gold fields in two days. The result of the discovery has been to advance the price of claims all along the creek. The last fatal shooting occurred at Stumpville the 13th inst., when a Mr. Tommy the Basher," was killed by a genuine named McDonald.

IN all of the 10 Congressmen who are loaded with question on the Harrison Tariff Bill are given a chance to talk, it is estimated that they will take up six weeks of the time of Congress. It is understood that the Republicans and the Democratic protectionists will endeavor to cut them off by a motion to strike out the enacting clause of the Bill at the earliest opportunity. This may not succeed, as Mr. Morrison has promised to secure to many of the amendments to be offered by the representatives of special interests, and to agree to the abolition of the internal-revenue tax, except that on whisky and malt liquors. The fate of the Bill in the House is learned to such uncertainty. The old and experienced members trust the Judgment of the new men and the previous old men to tell the truth.

MR. PENNYPACKER who wisely and honestly gives utterances refuses, but he either declines himself or attempts to deceive the country when he says that "The Democratic party is pledged to the reform—by all accounts." There is just as much hope for this particular reform in Democratic hands as for any other reform, and that is none at all. But in the case of civil-service reform the difference is that the Democratic party cannot make a reasonable pretense of evading it. No movement upon the Government is attended and resisted by the positive opposite of civil-service reform. It is believed that on seizing the offices and dividing up the patronage. This is the common product on which the Democrats and the professionals, the Bourbons and the Ghouls, meet and unite their difference. Mr. Pennypacker ought to make higher, but he could better, Eight were appointed and five sent.

DURING the debate on the Pendleton Copyright bill in the House yesterday a decided tendency to open the door of the Treasury to claimants was manifested by Congressmen on both sides of the House. The economists mostly resisted all such attempts, and made propositions to reduce the number of pension agents from eighteen to twelve. Gen. Rosecrans moved to transfer the payment of pensions to the Treasurer's Bureau of the army.

CHOLERA disease is reported to prevail in Marion County, South Carolina. A local paper says that "in our good state the War have partisans both in water, There are perhaps hundreds who cannot get breakfast enough to eat." THE Democratic Governor of Tennessee has issued a proclamation calling upon the people of that State to observe Friday, April 26, as a day of fasting and prayer, "that the Almighty may be entreated to avert the pestilence which is now desolating the valley of the Mississippi." Governor Taylor's proclamation is a curiosity in its way. It says: "Whereas, the Almighty has in His wisdom and mercy seen fit to withhold the usual rains from the earth, and has caused the waters of the Mississippi River to recede from the usual limits of its channel, leaving the lowlands and bottoms exposed to the heat of the sun, and thereby causing the generation of miasma and malaria, which is now being wafted by the winds over the hills and valleys of our State, bringing sickness and death to many of our people, and threatening to visit with pestilence and death the entire population of the State; and whereas, the Almighty has in the exercise of His wisdom and mercy seen fit to withhold the usual rains from the earth, and has caused the waters of the Mississippi River to recede from the usual limits of its channel, leaving the lowlands and bottoms exposed to the heat of the sun,

BLAINE IN IOWA.

The Plain Man Carries Everything Before Him in the Council of Action.

BLAINE'S BOOK.

Collection of the Chronicles of Many of the Maine Statesman's Contemporaries.

Grant, Sherman, Conkling, Washburne, Butler, Schuyler Colfax, Edmunds, Lamar, Sherman, Evarts, and Lincoln.

[Extract from the First Volume of Mr. Blaine's Two Books.]

Mr. Blaine, though five years the junior, was senior in Congressional service to Mr. Fessenden, and had attained wider celebrity. Mr. Fessenden's talent was given almost exclusively to questions involving our foreign relations and to those growing out of the slavery agitation. To the latter he devoted himself, not merely with unwearying fidelity, but with all the power and ardor of his nature. Upon personal acquaintance of fourteen years in the Senate, and in the House, and many participations in the labors which settled these two great questions, I do not hesitate to say that I never knew any other man to possess the extraordinary talents and to exhibit in the highest degree the qualities which distinguished Mr. Fessenden. He had speech, as he had thought, at his command. His diction, always chaste and appropriate, was sometimes of surpassing beauty and power. His arguments were logical and exhaustive, and his sarcasm, when he chose to employ it, was withering. He had the faculty for acquiring speech. Like all others, he could have no mark for a thousand guesses, but might not have a shilling of change. With his vast treasure he possessed the prestige of the Senate. His written reputation was the permanent chamber of the fire, and they were read more eagerly than speeches which produced greater effect on the hearer. Mr. Sumner said that the eminent William Pinkney, of Maryland was primus inter pares of the two hundred who came to form the Senate. Pinkney might well have been the first senator who might rank Webster. He attained more to the artistic. Their profound knowledge and profoundest effect on public opinion, and not inferior dependence on the history of the country.

SLAVERY QUESTION.

The Senate was filled with able men, many of whom had conspicuously assumed the attitude of champions of the slave system, and were ready with unsparing fidelity to defend it. Mr. Fessenden's talent was given almost exclusively to questions involving our foreign relations and to those growing out of the slavery agitation. To the latter he devoted himself, not merely with unwearying fidelity, but with all the power and ardor of his nature. Upon personal acquaintance of fourteen years in the Senate, and in the House, and many participations in the labors which settled these two great questions, I do not hesitate to say that I never knew any other man to possess the extraordinary talents and to exhibit in the highest degree the qualities which distinguished Mr. Fessenden. He had speech, as he had thought, at his command. His diction, always chaste and appropriate, was sometimes of surpassing beauty and power. His arguments were logical and exhaustive, and his sarcasm, when he chose to employ it, was withering. He had the faculty for acquiring speech. Like all others, he could have no mark for a thousand guesses, but might not have a shilling of change. With his vast treasure he possessed the prestige of the Senate. His written reputation was the permanent chamber of the fire, and they were read more eagerly than speeches which produced greater effect on the hearer. Mr. Sumner said that the eminent William Pinkney, of Maryland was primus inter pares of the two hundred who came to form the Senate. Pinkney might well have been the first senator who might rank Webster. He attained more to the artistic. Their profound knowledge and profoundest effect on public opinion, and not inferior dependence on the history of the country.
